U.N. Council Heads Into Conflict On Franco Spain

U. N. Divided On Break With Franco Spain

Full-Fledged Row Looms In Council Session At New York

BREAK WITH SPAIN URGED IN REPORT

NEW YORK, June 6.—(INS)—The United Nations Security Council will resolve itself into a major debate this afternoon over the question of a general diplomatic break with Franco Spain.

A full-fledged row between the eleven member nations was in prospect.

Russia, Poland and France were expected to argue for severer treatment of Madrid's Fascist regime, up to and including economic sanctions.

The United States and Great Britain quite probably will hold out for less drastic measures.

Will Present Report

Australian Minister of External Affairs Herbert Evatt will present a five-power sub-committee's report suggesting that all of the 51 governments belonging to the United Nations break off relations with Spain.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, overnight was waiting final instructions from his London government. Best guess was that London, while holding a grim view of the generalissimo's threat to world peace and security, would argue against dipomatic ostrasization.

This also appeared to be the con-

D-Day Reminders Still Evident At Normandy Beach

By CANDY VANDERLIP
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

STE. MERE EGLISE, Normandy, June 6.—On the morning of June 6th two years ago the broad sandy beaches of Normandy shook with bombs and shellfire; the ocean was red with the blood of our wounded.

Today at Utah Beach where the American VII Corps landed, buttercups bloom on what is left of German gun emplacements.

The flat sandy French coast looks almost untouched—but the quiet easy-going people of Normandy need no reminder of the Americans. The heroic U. S. landing is written everlastingly in their memories.

Today the only shells on the beach are sea-shells.

Some metal cans rust on the sand. You can still read the printing on them, "meat and vegetable hash from Kansas City, Mo."

Far off to the right a string of eight or ten half-sunk ships list crazily against the horizon. They are the remains of the immense breakwater thrown up to protect our troop landings.

Surf laps against the rusting sides of a few landing barges, half-buried by the shifting sands.

One or two block houses tilt at crazy angles. Wiry beach grass grows in their cracked cement.

A weatherbeaten sign remains. Its paint, peeling in the moist sea air, spells out, "Franklin Roosevelt Beach."

Another unmistakable sign that

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS)—Sen. Warren R. Austin (R) Vt., who set the pace for Republican acceptance of a "one world" foreign policy, was ready today to give up his Senate seat and become President Truman's special representative to the United Nations Security Council.

Republicans and Democrats alike in Congress acclaimed Austin's designation as the ultimate successor to Edward R. Stettinius, who resigned Monday as the United States delegate in the Security Council.

The 68-year-old Republican said he would resign from the Senate as soon as he has received the official

Citizens Being Urged To Buy U. S. Savings Bonds In Special Campaign

Today is the anniversary of D-Day in the European Theater of Operations but America today is not thinking of beachheads, and assault boats. The day marks the opening of the U. S. Savings Bond campaign in Lawrence county.

The bonds are "E", "F" and "G" bonds, all of them similar to the bonds of the same designation during the war. This time however the sale of the bonds is being urged not to buy tanks and planes, but to buy some security in later years.

Vote To Probe Strike Threat

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS)—The House Labor committee voted today to investigate the causes and effects of the forthcoming maritime strike set for June 15.

In a brief closed session this morning, the labor committee approved a broadening of the authority of a seven-man subcommittee to look into all strikes affecting the national welfare.

The subcommittee was set up several weeks ago, before the President asked for a study of labor legislation, to canvass the field of existing legislation and proposed changes and modifications.

France And Italy Election Results Will Alter Plans

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(INS)—Diplomatic observers today foresaw a more aggressive role played by the United States in the Balkans and states surrounding the Soviet sphere as a result of latest elections returns from France and Italy.

U. S. policy makers were said to be convinced that, wherever free elections can be held, the tendency will be greater toward democratic forms than toward communism.

They noted that in Slovakia and France the communists suffered severe reversals. This had also been true in Hungary, despite the close proximity of Hungary to the Soviet Union.

Communist Party Minor

Analysts observed that in Italy, democratic ideals were strong enough to overthrow the monarchy and leave the communist party in a relatively minor role.

Romania was expected to be the next focal point of democratic attack. The United States recently

'BACK YOUR FUTURE'

By BESS W. TRUMAN
Wife of the President.

THE WHITE HOUSE, Washington, June 6.—(INS)—To the women of America:

The future well-being of most American families rests largely upon the resoluteness of women in maintaining the wartime habit of investing every dollar above needed living expenses in United States Savings Bonds.

It was vital to back the attack on our enemies by buying war bonds. In peace it is equally vital for women to take the lead in backing the future of their loved ones.

Let us all heed the lesson we learned during the war—that the most effective way to save is to make each pay day a step toward ownership of another savings bond.

Draft Extension Measure Passed By Senate 69-8

Bill Now Goes To House-Senate Conferees For Final Congress Action

TEEN-AGE ISSUE TO BE DETERMINED

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS)—A senate-approved draft extension bill sweetened with lower-grade pay raises and making teen-age youths liable for induction headed toward a house-senate conference committee today.

The controversial measure passed the senate by a 69 to 8 vote following defeat of a substitute which would have banned all inductions until congress by law ordered them resumed.

Conferees Named

Seven senate conferees were named immediately. Formal house action sending the bill to conference for adjustment of the differences over the teen-age issue and pay increases may have to await clearance by its rules committee.

The senate version extends the selective service act until May 15th, 1947, as against a house continuation to Feb. 15. The house bill, however, imposed a holiday on inductions until Oct. 15, 1946.

Whatever compromise is reached will supplant the stop-gap extension which exempts 18 and 19-year-olds and fathers and expires July 1.

The senate bill provides:

Pay Raises Favored

Pay raises for enlisted men and non-coms ranging from two percent for master sergeants to 50 percent for buck privates. Warrant officers and commissioned officers receive no increase.

Induction of men between 18 and 45 years of age but exemption of

One Reported Killed; 52 Hurt In Train Wreck

LEGRANDE, Ore., June 6.—(INS)—A trainman was killed and 52 persons were reported injured today when a Union Pacific Railroad streamliner and the road's eastbound Portland Rose collided head-on.

The collision occurred 15 miles north of Legrande, near Hot Lake, Ore.

Two persons were reported seriously injured.

The wreck occurred at 3:02 a. m. (PST).

Those near the scene said the accident happened 100 yards east of a siding which the Portland Rose was supposed to have taken as the west-bound streamliner rumbled by.

Brakeman Killed

The brakeman was identified as "Unger," of Pendleton, Ore., who apparently was caught in the doorway of a coach on the Portland Rose just as he was going to jump clear of the train.

First of the injured to be taken to Legrande was identified as Rev. J. Ward, a Catholic priest from St. Louis. His injuries were described as "slight".

Initial reports said that all of the coaches on the two passenger trains remained on the tracks, but that one of the two locomotives pulling the streamliner was telescoped slightly.

Don Bate Of Associated Clubs Speaks "Future White Man In Asia"

DR. E. S. COOPER ACCORDED HONOR

"If we (Americans) take an honest man to man attitude in our dealings with the Asiatics, treat them with respect and equality, and with an understanding of their psychology, and not treat them with abuse, smugness and cynicism—then and only then can we as a nation profit in our economic relations and continue on the road to prosperity in Asia."

So said Don Bate, former newspaper editor in the Far East, when he addressed the Lawrence County Medical society, Wednesday evening at their annual banquet held at The Castleton.

Mr. Bate endeavored to show how the Asiatics, especially the Chinese, have been treated for many years. He continued: "Fundamentally the Chinese are the same. They are honest, they think differently, act differently, and their way of life seems foreign to us, but if we treat them with the understanding that their

Maritime Strike Parley Is Snagged On Shorter Week

Negotiations For Peaceful Settlement Of Threatened Strike To Be Continued

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS)—Negotiations for a peaceful settlement of the threatened June 15 maritime strike were snagged today on the major demand of the nation's merchant sailors for a shorter work week at sea.

Federal conciliators planned separate conferences with the shipowners and leaders of the seven-union coalition of maritime workers before joint bargaining sessions were resumed at 2 p. m. EST.

The next step appeared to be for the government to submit a compromise on the controversial hours problem.

The latest counter-proposal of the union for 44-hour work week at sea was rejected by the shipowners in a negotiating session which lasted until nearly midnight Wednesday.

Special Ceremonies Held Throughout France Today On Invasion Anniversary

PARIS, June 6.—(INS)—Special ceremonies were held throughout France today to commemorate the second anniversary of D-Day.

Mayors of communities liberated by forces of late Gen. George S. Patton have ordered flags to be hung along the length of the road leading from Avranches to Metz.

Other towns will erect milestones on French roads traversed by liberating American armies, and commemorative markers will inform passersby they are using historic routes.

The French War Veterans' association Freres D'Armes plans to ask the government to transfer permanently to the U. S. a strip of the Normandy beachhead where Allied troops landed to start their advance in Europe.

Life Prison Term Faces Youth In Lebanon Crime

LEBANON, Pa., June 6.—(INS)—Life imprisonment today faced William D. Beck, Jr., 19-year-old veteran, convicted by a Lebanon county jury of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of James A. Strickler, 51, at a gasoline station near Fontana.

The jury returned a guilty verdict last night but recommended life imprisonment. The commonwealth demanded the death penalty, contending that Beck shot Strickler without apparent motive after the aged man had serviced his automobile with gasoline last January. Beck formerly resided at Harrisburg.

Truman Bill Is Headed For Further Delay

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS)—The drastically-curtailed emergency labor bill requested by President Truman appeared today to be headed for further delays on Capitol Hill by being referred to a senate-house conference.

Under a "gentlemen's" agreement in the house, today is the first day that any move can be made to dispose of the bill as it was passed by the senate last Saturday.

Unanimous consent is required under house rules, either to accept the senate version and send it to the White House, or to disagree in the senate changes and send the measure to a conference to reconcile difference between the house and senate.

Opposing factions in the legislative dispute over the anti-strike bill both appear anxious to seek delays in final congressional action on the measure to serve their divergent purposes.

Governor Warren Breaks Records In California Election

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6—(INS)—Latest California primary election returns indicated today that Republican Gov. Earl Warren's victorious bid for re-election netted him more than a million votes—nearly 600 thousand more than his defeated Democratic opponent.

Warren's political miracle in wresting the Democratic nomination from State Attorney General Robert W. Kenny shattered two records: He became the first governor to be nominally re-elected at a California primary and became the first governor to bid successfully for re-election in more than three decades.

Although voters decisively settled the gubernatorial race, fiery political battles are assured this November over the offices of U. S. senator and lieutenant governor.

Warren-appointed William F. Knowland swept to an easy Republican nomination for U. S. senator. Knowland, who hails from Warren's hometown of Oakland in northern California, will meet the successful Democratic candidate, former Congressman Will Rogers Jr of Beverly Hills.

Seven Probes In La Salle Hotel Fire Disaster

Death Toll In Chicago Fire Is Placed At 58—Six More May Die

CAUSE OF BLAZE NOT YET ASSIGNED

CHICAGO, June 6.—(INS)—A flood of public and official protest swept Chicago today as seven separate investigations were planned into the tragic LaSalle Hotel fire which claimed 58 lives.

The holocaust brought inquiries from the state, county and city as additional persons of the 200 injured were released from hospitals.

Thirty injured persons remained in hospitals. Physicians feared for the lives of at least six of the victims.

Nine of the 58 dead still were unidentified.

Theatres-Clubs Closed

Mayor Edward J. Kelly ordered the closing of two theaters and five night clubs where violations of fire regulations are known to exist. The mayor said every precaution would be taken to prevent a recurrence of another such fire which swept the 37-year-old, 238-room LaSalle Hotel.

Other investigations were planned by Coroner A. L. Brodie, Henry Eckhardt, assistant corporation counsel, State's Attorney William Touhy, and the State Fire Marshal's office.

Didn't Call Firemen Early

None of the investigators was able to give the cause of the fire. Fire Commissioner Michael Corrigan said:

"Evidence is mounting that a volunteer fire brigade apparently used hand pumps and didn't call the fire department early enough.

"Meddling by amateur fire fighters who attempted to put out the blaze with these seltzer bottles and small fire extinguishers undoubtedly enable the flames to gain such headway that extra alarms had to be sent in immediately, on arrival of the first firemen."

Sweeps Six Floors

The fire was reported at 12:25 a. m. yesterday. It swept with tragic suddenness through the six lower floors of the building, blocking off the stairways and sending out great choking clouds of smoke.

Many of the victims were burned

June Court Term Cancelled Today

There will be no June term of criminal court. All cases listed for the term, which was to have started Monday, June 10, have entered pleas and District Attorney Leroy K. Donaldson asked that the term of court be cancelled and the jurors notified they would not be needed.

Shortly before noon Judge W. Walter Braham signed the order cancelling the term and notifications are being sent out to all jurors who were summoned; saying they need not appear Monday morning. The cancellation of the term will save considerable money in jury fees.

So Little Miss Muffet said yes right quick, and so she has gone away and the house is quiet the while she's gone; it's sixty-seven today.

D-DAY REMINDERS STILL EVIDENT AT NORMANDY BEACH

the Yanks have been there is a simple monument—a mound of earth flanked with cement steps leading to a blunt obelisk. "In proud memory of our dead, First Engineer Special Brigade." The date is added—a date no American, and no Norman, can forget, "H hour 0630, D Day 6 June 1944."

Just as American as the monument are the green wooden bleachers which face it. Built last year in baseball style for the first D-Day celebrations, they make strange contrast with the broad empty sands.

Each Sunday Utah beach is a favorite gathering place for family picnics. Nearby villagers arrive by bicycle, not by tank as the Americans did.

Military Cemetery

The other main U. S. landing was at Idaho Beach by the First Army. This lonely stretch of sand is marked now by the military cemetery of St. Laurent. Today the wide beach is still hideous with the sound of exploding mines, set off by German prisoners of war.

As one drives along country roads leading inland from the shore, reminders of the GI are more frequent.

There are road signs in neat deep blue, printed in English, American made roads in the heart of rural France, named for lost brave comrades—"Bryant Road in honor of Pfc. D. S. Bryant 551 ESR."

There are other road signs, too. Ominous ones in the midst of thriving country communities, "Danger, mines cleared only to edge of road."

Normandy cannot forget the U. S.—nor will we ever forget this rural French peninsula. Rows of white crosses stretching across its green fields are an eternal reminder.

Took No Heed

"In the Far East, the only nation to immerge from the World War I, as a powerful nation was Japan. At that time she was the third ranking nation, the United States and Great Britain being first and second. In the Pacific then, Japan was first—stronger than United States and Great Britain, but no nation took heed of this. Japan's first challenge came in 1937 when she engaged in war with China. It was also a challenge to us, but we did not see this. Japan was not thinking of Asia for the Asiatic, she was thinking of Asia for the Japanese. Then Pearl Harbor came, and at the end of World War II, Japan was completely and totally destroyed of power, as no other nation has evere been destroyed."

Mr Bate concluding his talk said, "The Asiastics want to be supreme in their own back yard. In terms of political power in China we are finished. Hereafter in China, everyone—tourists, diplomats and others will have to live under Chinese law. Every nation should work out its own destiny. And when they have achieved this, we can land a share of their profitable market, by dealing with them honestly, and sincerely."

Mr. Bate answered questions at the close of his address.

Dr. Shoaff Toastmaster

Mr Bate was introduced by Dr. P. A. Shoaff, toastmaster of the evening.

Dr. P. H. Wilson, president of the Lawrence County Medical society, welcomed the group, and introduced Dr. C. H. Whalen, program chairman. Due recognition was given to Dr. Mary Baker Davis for the program's arrangement, and to Mrs. Wilbur Flannery and committee for the flower arrangements.

Dr. Shoaff then presided as toastmaster and gave due honor to the physicians who have served their country and who now have returned home to their practice. They were introduced: Drs. J. B. Barrett, Aaron Caplan, Milton Caplan, T. A. French, W. J. Hinkson, George J. Jones, Ralph Markley, S. W. Perry Jr., C. H. Whalen, P. B. Wilson, D. C. Young and C. F. Kissinger. Drs. D. B. Connery, and J. E. Ginsberg were unable to be present due to post-graduate medical work.

Dr. E. S. Cooper, South Mill street, was accorded honor on his 50th year as a practicing physician. Dr. John Foster made the presentation of the gift, and briefly outlined the honored guest's achievements. Dr. Cooper responded graciously.

Newcomers in the vicinity were introduced: Dr. Thomas Uber, urologist; Dr. William Winick, psychiatrist; and Dr. A. I. Stewart, of Zelienople, president of the Ellwood City hospital staff. Guests included: Dr. John Leonard, professor of medicine of Boston University; and Major C. F. Kissinger, of Enon, a member of the society who arrived home from service.

The banquet was served at 6:30 p. m. on long tables nicely arranged, with fresh garden flowers centering each table, and tall white candles flanking the speakers table. Dr. W. A. Womer said grace.

A brief meeting followed, and delegates to the state medical convention were elected: Dr. W. J. Hinkson; alternates, Dr. Harold Sumner, Ellwood City, and Dr. Sam Perry, Jr. The Medical society has concluded meetings until September.

A. R. Heismann is the county chairman of the Savings Bond Campaign. There will be no dramatic public events such as accompanied the sale of war bonds. There will be no meetings, but a continuous effort will be made to interest citizens in pay roll deductions and the purchase of the bonds through banks and the post office.

Mr. Smith says that other honor rolls are being well attended to, and he and others interested would be glad to see the South Side honor roll soon installed in a suitable place.

She immediately flew out and soon brought back her mate. The pair went into the attack at once, swooping down striking the rodent with their beaks and wings. The squirrel beat a retreat, and has not returned.

'Back Your Future'

During the war Americans became dramatically familiar with the bond drives.

This month the Treasury department is undertaking a new kind of bond sales campaign in which you must act as your own salesman. No one will knock at your door to remind you of your obligation to your fighting son or friend.

Everywhere you went, whether at work, at play, and at home you were reminded: "Back the Attack. Back the Attack. Back the Attack." The fighting power of the war bonds you bought went off to war but the dollars represented in each of the bonds you accumulated stayed with you and earned interest.

United States Savings Bonds are still available. Each bond says to you: "I back your future. I back your future." To be sure, this is no flag-waving appeal of the character to which you responded so remarkably in the war years. Nevertheless this appeal serves the country as well as you. We are in the throes of the battle against inflation. Billions of dollars above the value of available consumers' are in the hands of Americans. There is no longer compulsory rationing. Self-discipline in the matter of handling your resources and income is of the utmost importance now. Every dollar you put away in bonds now is a dollar you keep out of competition with your neighbor for scarce goods. Continued investment in savings bonds is your personal guarantee against a shaky national economy, jumpy prices of the things you need to maintain a comfortable standard of living.

The June slogan, "Back Your Future," which the Treasury department has chosen can be safely interpreted to cover the immediate future as well as the period 10 years hence when every $3 you invest in savings bonds returns to you with $1 profit. Tomorrow, the next day, and the next week and the next month are your future when you talk about the fight against inflation.

From every standpoint you truly back your future by continuing to buy and hold United States Savings Bonds.

Aerial Traffic Jams

That old nightmare, the traffic jam, which has been plaguing motorists ever since World War I, is now rearing its ugly head in the aviator's once-free skies. And those who think a highway packed with cars is hard on the patience and the nerves should listen to what the Army Air Forces expect to be happening around the airports before long.

According to the Army's experts the aerial traffic jam of the near future may cover a circle 60 miles in diameter and a mile deep. It will not be filled with planes buzzing along propeller to wingtip. But the air will be uncomfortably crowded over this area with aircraft flying at different levels and at different speeds waiting for a chance to land.

It is easier to imagine what a headache this would provide both for the fliers and for the traffic control officials at the airfields than to figure a way out of such a jam. In darkness or in fog a 10-mile clearance in the air is not much less nerve-racking than a 10-foot clearance on the highway. Aircraft, particularly the new jet-powered craft, zip in and out of range almost before the traffic towers have a chance to get in touch with them.

Altogether, it is a horrendous prospect. But it is encouraging, at any rate, to learn that the authorities are working on ways to cope with aerial traffic jams before they get really bad. In the case of the automobile it has been the general custom to let congestion grow to the point where streets and highways are virtually impassable before doing something about it.

Aviation experts may do a better job by tackling the problem before the air gets too clogged for safety and for comfort.

Weeding Time

Weeding time is here for the gardener, and he must bestir himself to repel the unwelcome invaders. Unless he gets the upper hand now he will lose the battle, for where weeds are concerned it is always later than most gardeners think.

That is true because weeding, at best, is a time-consuming process. It is less of a problem for those who cultivate with horse or tractor than for gardeners who depend on the hoe, whether of the wheel variety or wielded by hand, but even they cannot escape the necessity of getting the weeds close to the row. To garden at all means that arms and fingers must be used to do the necessary job.

It is the weeds that crowd nearest that do the most harm. They take the food and moisture meant for the vegetables. Their leaves get in the way of the sun. If they grow too big, even pulling them is bad business because it disturbs the roots of wanted plants. So they must be eliminated, and the sooner the better.

That means that the hand hoe is an essential. Fortunately, it will do the bigger part of the task, though there is much to be said for the onion hoe for close work and the scuffle or Dutch hoe is a time-saver. But a hand-weeder is a great help—especially the kind with an angled blade and a point on the end. So armed, the determined gardener can make good progress.

It is no use denying, though, that weeding is mostly just plain toil. And yet there is grim satisfaction in the sight of the once-brash aggressors wilting under the heat and in the knowledge that they can cause no more damage to the gardener's charges.

War Trial Convictions

Reports of the United Nations war crimes commission show that since the end of the war 282 sentences of death have been imposed on convicted persons.

The same reports show that 318 persons were sentenced to varying terms of imprisonment and 135 others were given acquittals by the courts trying them.

Reports from Czechoslovakia indicate that 1291 persons were given trials for war crimes, and of this number forty-four were sentenced to death and others imprisoned.

The war crimes commission expresses itself as satisfied with the results and expects that many others will be placed on trial within the next few months.

"Numbers of men are at last in the hands of the countries in which their abominable deeds were committed, and their early trials may be expected," the commission says.

WASHINGTON CALLING by MARQUIS CHILDS

President's Case Ball Action Campaign Issue

WASHINGTON, June 6.—As of this writing, President Truman has decided to veto the controversial Case bill. He will veto it not because of the pressure from organized labor but in spite of that pressure.

The president has been annoyed by the tone of statements made by labor leaders, particularly that of Philip Murray of the CIO. They have made it far more difficult, from the point of view of general opinion, to take the action he was inclined from the beginning to take.

In the veto message which is being concocted, the president will cite his own record in the senate. He will point out too that, in his message to congress recommending drastic emergency legislation, he specifically said he did not seek permanent restrictive legislation. Instead he recommended an exhaustive study by a joint house-senate committee which would come out with a comprehensive legislative program.

Urge Signing

Of course, there are men around the president who continue to urge him to sign the bill. They argue that thereby he would show his independence and appeal to a much wider segment of opinion. Their pressure might be such as to persuade the president to change his mind before the deadline of June 12, but it is unlikely.

The Case bill could never be described as a vicious bill. But the senate added certain provisions of doubtful workability, including the cooling-off period, which could apparently be circumvented by unions determined to strike without reference to the meditation process.

Then, facing up to the political music, the president knows that the weight of polotics is all on the side of a veto. A message can be a forceful argument with those who are opposing the third-party move.

Third-Party Debate

The third party debate is a very real continuing one, with much depending on its outcome. Perhaps the strongest opponent is Sidney Hillman, who insists that such a move would serve only to insure the election of a reactionary Republican. He is backed in this by Secretary of commerce Henry A. Wallace.

By an interesting coincidence, Wallace was speaking in New York on the same night that President Truman went to the nation on the radio in the rail-strike crisis. Wallace was speaking at a the tenth anniversary dinner of the American labor party.

In his speech he gave strong support to President Truman. His audience was made up largely of left-wing labor leaders and intellectuals. They have been accused by liberals who deserted the labor party of being under communist domination. This audience was startled to hear Wallace say:

"I believe in the two-party system. I want the party I belong to—the Democratic party—to be the progressive party. The American labor party cannot, of course, elect delegates to the Democratic conventions. This lessens your influence. Any progressive third party which attempts to operate will find, because of the laws in most states, that it will guarantee a reactionary victory by divising the votes of progressives."

More Surprising

This was all the more surprising since Wallace himself had become involved in the election campaign of Johannes steel, defeated American labor party candidate for congress in New York City.

Wallace's aides explain his involvment in this way. They say that steel wrote to him declaring he intended to go into politics and that Wallace wrote a letter approving the step. This was never intended as an endorsement of steel's candidacy.

In his hotel room after his May 24 speech, Wallace was challenged by some who had heard him. They cited Truman's radio address as evidence that the secretary of commerce would have to desert the Democrats for a third party. But Wallace held his ground. He told them he intended to work for progressivism within the party unless he was forced out by one of two events. One would be a national scandal within the administration. The other would be an apparent determination to go to war with Russia, which would compel Wallace to get out and fight for peace.

Elmer Benson, chairman of PAC's executive committee, is one who is working hardest for a third party. Harold L. Ickes, as head of the Independent citizens committee of arts, sciences and professions, has taken a sharply critical line which would seem to lead to third-party action. Wallace and Ickes are, incidentally, rivals from the old New Deal days.

Whatever else it may be, the president's message on the Case bill is certain to become a campaign document.

Mr. Petrillo puts his case very clearly . . . If the law is unconstitutional he will not obey it. And if it's constitutional he won't obey it either.

James has merely put into words what so many others have put into action . . . Suddenly law has become something which applies only to the other fellow.

Jimmie says not a trumpet will toot on the networks starting in January. After midnight New Year's Eve the only swing left on the air will be Raymond Swing and you can't dance to him.

When Jimmie gets through, radio will be as far advanced as television which Mr. Petrillo has set back 10 years.

Anyway, this is to be a busy month . . . Louis meets Conn, the martime unions meet the government and the foreign ministers meet each other.

The only clear-cut decision will be in the Louis-Conn fight.

JUNE BRIDE

Lovely bride, your vows repeating,
Soon you'll hear the words that bind you.
Then receive the tender greeting
Of the friends who stand behind you.

Now you cannot see us staring,
Misty-eyed and lumpy-throated,
For your welfare deeply caring
As the wedding lines are quoted.

We who've lived to learn their meaning:
Worse or better, richer, poorer,
On each other's courage leaning,
Wish the joys of life were surer.

Soon you'll turn, the altar leaving,
See us, gathered to remind you:
As today, when you are grieving,
Look! You'll see us still behind you.

An atom test in which coal may be turned into diamonds is proposed, we read. What for? Isn't a lump of coal as precious today as a rare jewel.

AN IMPRUDENT THREAT

A little over two years ago Sewell Avery, of Montgomery Ward, had a bitter dispute with the government of the United States as represented by President Roosevelt, and was ejected from his office by the army. It is not of record, however, that he then said all the money in the Montgomery Ward treasury would be expended if necessary to prevent Mr. Roosevelt's re-election.

Mr. Avery could not legally make such an expenditure of the stockholders' funds.

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, after having lost a bout with the government as represented by President Truman, says the union has $47,000,000 on hand and will use it if necessary to prevent Mr. Truman's election in 1948.

It's a little early to start the 1948 campaign, and out of order to promise to defy the law which says: "It is unlawful . . . for any labor organization to make a contribution in connection with any election at which Presidential . . . electors . . . are to be voted for."

Mr. Whitney's threat is imprudent. If he thinks he sees loopholes in the prohibitive law, he is furnishing Congress with a good reason for plugging them. The country would object to excessive expenditure of industrial funds to defeat candidates who do not do industry's bidding, and it would equally object to the use of heavy accumulations of union dues to defeat a candidate a labor leader condemns.

Mr. Whitney has made one great mistake in leadership ,and now he lets his tongue get the better of his judgement. His threat to avenge himself by the use of other people's money is not to be taken too seriously.

The sixth of June nineteen hundred and fourty six . . . that's today . . . most of us are sitting comfortably at home with ones that we love. But two years ago today it was a different story. Our armed forces . . . our armed forces the ones that were so well trained and with so much confidence landed on the coast of France . . . from that moment on and until forever we shall know it as the Normandy landing. Today hundreds of our friends, yours and mine, are resting on that shore overlooking the sea. Let's not forget what these men made possible . . . and now two years later let us pause for a moment in silent prayer.

Really we are a well fed nation . . . true it is a little difficult to obtain certain items of food but on the whole we are in a position to obtain enough without too much effort to keep going . . . yes and we are eating plenty of variety in foods. That is not the case the world around. A collection by the American public to help those who are less fortunate has been going on for the past several weeks . . . some have given freely of canned foods . . . others have donated cash so that foods might be bought. This week it did our heart good to receive through the mail a nice sum of money from various churches . . churches from this community and this money with that sent in by individuals now is equivalent to ten thousand cans of food . . . at fifteen cents per can. This will probably be more when food is bought at war surplus prices.

Cascade Park is open . . . the damage done by the high water to the Park Lake will be fixed as soon as possible. One of the greatest attractions at the Park (during warm weather) is the swimming pool . . . and if the Park Commission has its way this pool will be the sweetest water pool in Pennsylvania. For years now the Commission has been working toward that goal . . . but monies have not been available . . . Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT
(Copyright, 1946)

Secretary Wallace Is Likely Unhappy

WASHINGTON, June 6. IF Mr. Henry Wallace were a more sensitive man he would pack up his bags, hand his resignation to the President and either plunge boldly into the particular pool of politics where he can swim with his own kind of fish, or go back to Iowa, there to uphold his family tradition of promoting the interests of, and disseminating information about, agriculture. Of the two, the latter seems his better choice, more conducive to a tranquil middle age, more certain of a satisfactory reward.

THIS was the way some viewed Mr. Wallace even before the settlement of the railroad strike and the Truman proposals which threw all of Mr. Wallace's friends into a state of frenzy. They literally filled the air with vituperation an denunciation of Mr. Truman, declared him politically doomed and pledged themselves to his destruction. With hardly an exception, every one of the leading Wallace-for-President boosters sank his or her fangs into Mr. Truman. Naturally, this increased the discomfort of Mr. Wallace, he having just before blithely declared that Mr. Truman would be nominated in 1948 and he would support him.

NOW, if his friends are to be believed, Mr. Wallace is a deeply unhappy man, greatly perturbed in spirit and with a very dim view of the immediate future. The fundamental trouble with Mr. Wallace is that there is practically no one in Washington with whom he is in sympathetic accord. Congenitally unfit for the post of Secretary of Commerce, in a little more than a year Mr. Wallace has reached a point where his press department is having an exceedingly difficult time making out a case for him. At intervals, it is true, a release proclaiming another Wallace "reform" or proposal is put out, but it is forgotten in a day and the impact upon the public grows less all the time.

HE HAS not, of course— and never will have—the confidence of either little or big business. Though recently he has been advocating party discipline in the Democratic party, he never has had the confidence of the regular Democratic leaders. And, certainly, while his relations with Mr. Truman are personally pleasant, he never has had his confidence—now, of course, less than ever. Perhaps none of this is surprising, but what is surprising is that Mr. Wallace seems to have lost to a quite extraordinary degree the confidence of a good many of the old Roosevelt liberals with whom he once was a political favorite.

INASMUCH as Mr. Wallace never had the confidence of conservative Democrats or Republicans, this would seem to mean that practically there is no group left anywhere with any confidence in him. Of course, things are not that bad with Mr. Wallace. He is still (apparently) the blue-eyed darling of the CIO. The Hillmans and the Murrays continue, as they should, to regard him as an ideal public servant. And the radical press continues to play him up, though not quite in the way they did.

FOR example, he is no longer compared to Lincoln and few now remember that Wallace speech which was likened to the Gettysburg address. In brief, hardly anyone will contend that Mr. Wallace has not shrunk as a public figure in the last fourteen months. The surest indication of this is the attitude toward him of the aforesaid Roosevelt liberals. Some of these are in the White House entourage; some are in the State department; one or two are on the Supreme Court; others are more or less "at large". From these come the most caustic anti-Wallace comment. They say that his economics are absurd and that the inconsistent effort to build him up as the real liberal leader tends to make the whole liberal movement ridiculous.

BUT the chief reason for resentment toward Mr. Wallace in this group is because of his extreme pro-Soviet stand. On every issue and at all times he lines up on the Russian side which, of course, throws him against the Administration's foreign policy and thus makes impossible any intimate relationship with the President or Secretary of State Byrnes. It so happens that a good many Roosevelt liberals are strongly for the Truman-Byrnes "firmness and patience" policy. They believe Mr. Wallace, though always with good intentions, in various ways is doing harm. If he feels this way, they say, he ought to get out, and they profess not to understand why Mr. Truman keeps him after that meeting for which he made the Commerce building available and at which the Administration's foreign policy was torn to pieces. The generally accepted answer is that Mr. Truman and Chairman Hannegan feel that with Mr. Wallace in the Cabinet the CIO-PAC opposition will not be too violent. In brief, he is their link with the left wing. But the link is not as strong as it was.

WRIGHT FIELD, Dayton, O.—Dr. Vannevar Bush, atom bomb scientist: "I see in the immediate future, the danger of war, and I see this danger increased if we are so foolish in this country as to lose the progress that we have made and go into some sort of a tailspin."

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Well, we took Deuce, our little Sealyham, home to Brookfield last Saturday.

The reason I am telling you this is because I have had hundreds of letters asking about him and wondering why I had not written anything about the little fellow for so long.

It speaks well for human nature—about which I get quite discouraged occasionally—that in these days of anxiety and worry people are still interested in what we facetiously call "just an animal," and it also proves the great importance of little things.

We hadn't seen Deuce for six months. The veterinarian told us it would be better that way. He would only miss us that much more, in his opinion, if we visited him and then left him there.

Dogs become adjusted, he said, and we followed his advice.

However, every time we passed the doctor's place we felt like stopping and saying hello, but we didn't.

But I noticed that whenever we did pass the place my wife didn't say a word for several miles—and as you men know, that is a whole lot for a woman.

Well, when Deuce came home—I said "we" brought him home; that was wrong, my wife called for him and I was waiting on the porch—when I saw him getting out of the car, I was shocked.

He looked years older than when I had seen him last, and there was that overcast look in his eyes that old age brings.

He had lost much of his hair and his little legs were stiff.

When he saw me I seemed to detect something of reproach.

He wagged his tail and licked my hand, but I felt that I had lost face with him.

As soon as he got into the house, he looked for his "tinkle ball" and dropped it at my feet.

After a few minutes of play and a tid-bit of raw hamburger we were friends again.

Then he wanted to go upstairs to his bed, but he couldn't make the grade. My wife had to carry him up and down again when he was ready for his dinner, which is served in the kitchen.

His appetite is as good as ever.

But when we sat down to our own dinner, he tried to sit up and beg for handouts, as he always did before.

But, again, his legs failed him, so he just nuzzled me—and got his morsels just the same.

After we had gone to bed I heard my wife cry softly.

I didn't ask her why but I knew.

Yes, Deuce is only a dog, but you, who love dogs as we do, will understand why my wife cried and why I felt pretty sad myself.

Deuce will have as good a time as possible this summer.

And when he goes—and life must go some day with all living things—he will have taught us more about loyalty, devotion and love than many human beings we know.

We have taught him many tricks—but there are no tricks in what we have learned from him.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

WHEN BABY LEARNS TO WALK

I know something about you, more about you when you were a year of age than about you now. By the time you reached that ripe old age, you were well on the way to becoming a biped. You still went about on all fours often.

But you did a good deal of stepping out while holding hands or all alone, the next several months. Your then dimpled knees did not readily bend as you walked. You went about as if on stilts, tripping over smallest articles.

The anxious nurse or parent who tried to lure you into walking and to help you walk, often proved a hindrance. The more you were assisted the more bumps, as a rule, you got.

Could you have spoken as vigorously as you can now, you might have shouted: "Go away; let me alone; don't bother me!" You don't, of course, recall these items in your very early life's experience, but I have related them about correctly.

Little Assistance

And now with your baby. Let him learn to walk with little or no urging, nor assistance except as he shall solicit it. Give this little creature's body lots of opportunity for freedom and exercise.

Perhaps the chance to lie and kick unhampered by excessive clothing, to roll and pull himself upon his feet will help more than all efforts to stand him upright or beckon him to "come to Mother." When he is ready to walk he will probably do so without urging, and the wise adult won't try to force matters.

Likewise with all his mucular skills. He learns them best, as a rule, when let alone; and as his crude manifestations emerge into creative play, his best teacher is himself.

Few Words

Perhaps he has uttered a few words before his first step—perhaps not. Anyway his speech develops through his own self-efforts at experimenting with sounds. Urge him to say words and his speech progress may be hindered more than helped.

My new bulletin, "The Young Child's Speech," may be had in a stamped envelope by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City.

It matters not how cunning his first utterances seem to be, we shall not treat him as a monkey doing tricks, but as the sacred little personality he is, wondrously unfolding day by day. We, accordingly, shall not smile or laugh at him or make fun of him. Nor shall we imitate his imperfect sounds nor handicap his speech by "baby talk." We shall try to be grown up ourselves.

Words Of Wisdom

The wise prove, and the fools confess, by their conduct, that a life of employment is the only life worth living.—Paley.

Hints On Etiquette

When you meet two or three friends and all stop to talk, don't block the sidewalk so that no one can pass without going off the walk.

The World and the Mud Puddles

A GREAT RAILROAD

A paid advertisement of the Pennsylvania railroad in current newspapers and periodicals presents some interesting points for the consideration of those who assume that big business is a product of the rich. The "Pennsy", observing its one hundredth anniversary recites that its original financing was through voluntary popular subscriptions and the sale of Fifty Dollar stock shares purchasable on Five Dollar installments. It is easily imagined that the raising of funds on this basis was no small undertaking.

But this, say the skeptical, was a century ago; things are different these days. How "different" they are is indicated in the statement that there are today 13,167,754 shares outstanding, held by 214,995 stockholders. Of these stockholders, 106,139 are women. The average number of shares per stockholder is sixty-one and one-fourth. The proud boast of the corporation is that it has never defaulted in its payments, that it has distributed more than Ten Billion Dollars in wages, One and a Quarter Billion Dollars in dividends, and more than One Billion Dollars in bond interest.

The story of the Pennsylvania is not only typical of the origin and development of our great industries. It is a reminder of the place that an organization of this character holds in the economic life of the nation. Railroads through their purchase of rails, equipment, fuel and scores of types of materials are among the leading customers for American products. When they prosper, other industries prosper; when they suffer adversity, other industries suffer with them.

But there is another point in the "Pennsy" story that is too frequently overlooked. That is the wide distribution of its ownership, with nearly a quarter of a million persons holding investments in the company for income. When this income is realized, these investors are customers for American goods; when it fails, so much buying power is lost. It is a poor policy of government which makes these investors the "forgotten men"—and women— on the erroneous assumption that they represent only the wealthy.

Good Taste

BRIDE'S TROUSSEAU

"Tell me, please, just what should be included in a bride's trousseau and linens. I am engaged and wish to start my collection of necessary items to take to my new home."

Answer: Linens of every description (if she is lucky enough to find them on our depleted shelves) should be included in the bride's "linens"—bedroom linens should include sheets, pillow cases, bedspreads, blankets and quilts; bureau and dresser covers. Towels of all classes are necessary—small, dainty guest towels; hand, face and bath towels; face cloths, bath mats and dish and hand towels for your kitchen.

Your most important household linen is that for your dining room. Every bride should possess large and small damask tablecloths with napkins to match; breakfast, luncheon and tea cloths with accompanying napkins; doilies for bread and cake plates; scarfs or covers for the dining table, buffet, serving table. The quantity of each should depend upon your social life, how much entertaining you will do and how much you wish to spend for laundry.

The quantity as well as the quality of your trousseau depends entirely upon a number of circumstances. For instance, how you will live and where . . . what your social life will be . . . whether your husband is in the lower or the upper or medium financial bracket . . . whether you will keep your job and therefore be self-supporting.

A generation ago every bride was supposed to bring to her husband's house sufficient clothes in her trousseau to last for at least two years. But modern modes change so rapidly that this rule has been disregarded. You should, however, have at least a dozen pieces of each item of lingerie and a sufficient number of outer garments to last for about a year. Many modern brides are financially independent of their husbands. Those with salaries of their own are laws unto themselves.

Present your problems to Miss Markel, who will promptly mail personal replies to readers inclocing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SPRAY KEEPS RABBITS AWAY

A spray that is not injurious to plants or animals, but discourages the animals from chewing the plants, will protect garden vegetables from damage of rabbits, woodchucks, and other animals.

Such a spray can be made by mixing one ounce of aluminum sulphate in a gallon of water. It gives the plant leaves a tart or bitter flavor which is decidedly unpalatable to the animals. The spray material can be removed easily by washing in preparation for table use. Repeated applications are necessary after each rain.

G.I. Goes To Italy, Gets Family Here But Authorities Object

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—(INS)—Francis X. Laughrey, 25-year-old veteran of the Italian campaign was reunited temporarily with his wife and baby Wednesday, hoping that his tale of love for his family would strike a warm note with immigration authorities.

Loughrey, who lives at 3110 Abbottsford Road, had his family in Italy, and couldn't seem to get them over here. Finally, when other channels failed, he shipped out in a merchant ship to Naples, then he spirited his wife and baby on the ship and smuggled them into the U. S.

Things were serene—until the immigration and naturalization service found out about it.

Loughrey told his story to U. S. Commissioner Norman J. Griffin, who listened sympathetically, and promised to help him.

JEAN CIECHANSKI, D. B. WILLETS, WED

Solemnized in SS. Philip and James church at 10:30 o'clock in the morning June 1 was the wedding of Miss Jean Ciechanski, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Ciechanski of 1812 Hamilton street, and Donald R. Willets of Freeport, L. I., N. Y.

Rev. V. V. Stancelewski officiated at the double ring ceremony during a nuptial high mass.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown fashioned of brocaded nylon chiffon, with long sleeves, ending in points at the wrist, a square yoke outlined with a double ruffle of nylon chiffon. A peplum at the waistline complemented the bouffant skirt, made entrain. The bride wore as her only jewelry an heirloom silver and sapphire necklace, gift of the groom's mother. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a half-hat trimmed in clusters of orange blossoms and seed pearls. She carried calla lilies.

As her maid of honor, her cousin, Miss Helen Kielar, wore ice-blue nylon taffeta. The gown fashioned with bouffant skirt, high neckline and cap sleeves with long matching gloves and a picture hat made of blue net and trimmed with pink. She carried a colonial bouquet of spring flowers, tied with pink ribbon and streamers.

Bridesmaids were the Misses Gretta Logue, Wanda Koziol and Helen Bukowski, gowned like the maid of honor except that blue predominated in the accessories and flowers.

John Vinski of Etna was best man. Ushers were Edward Frey of Elloood City, Robert Crevenston of this city and John Polacsek of Elyria, O.

Music was played by Miss Marie Dutkiewicz, organist, and the children's choir sang the nuptial high mass.

A short congratulatory period followed in the vestibule of the church, after which breakfast was served in the parish hall. At 6 p. m. dinner was served to 500 relatives and friends with dancing as entertainment for the balance of the evening.

The newlyweds motored to Buffalo and points of interest in Canada.

Extends Wishes To YMCA Branch

Mayor Haven Reminds Public Of 102nd Birthday Of YMCA Movement Today

Young Men's Christian Association, since its founding more than a century ago by a small group of inspired men, has fostered, in war and peace, a set of ideals which have been vital factors in the molding of the character of hundreds of thousands of youths in more than three score countries in the world.

Organized by twelve men who believed that religion was essentially an instrument for the cultivation of good will among men, the movement throughout the years has adhered closely to the originally purpose—buoying the morale of men entrapped by war and strengthening the spirit of youth in time of peace.

On June 6, in New Castle, and in 10,000 Y. M. C. A.'s in 68 countries, members of this humanitarian organization will meet to observe the 102nd anniversary of the birth of the Y. M. C. A., and to rededicate themselves to the aims of its founders.

As one who has observed the work of the Y. M. C. A. in this city and surrounding communities, and found it a constructive force for the ultimate achievement of a betterworld, I deem it a privilege to extend my sincere felicitations to the Association on its 102nd birthday, and to wish for it in the future a success ever surpassing its attainments in the past.

JOHN F. HAVEN,
Mayor.

Iztachihual, a lofty Mexican mountain, is of volcanic origin, but has no crater. It is oblong in shape and its summit is covered with perpetual snow, the profile resembling a woman lying wrapped in a white shroud, whence its name, which means "White Woman".

How To Self-Ration Bread Sensibly So More Wheat Can Go Abroad

Deny Yourself—You Can Do It Safely—But Don't Deny Your Children Because They Need the Growth and Energy Provided by Good Bread

Hunger knows no boundary lines. Famine respects no flag. Death draws no color line.

Some countries have food. Some just don't have enough.

This is not a matter of race or creed or political belief.

It is this: shall those who have, share even their slender store?

The heart of America has spoken: we will share our wheat that millions in Europe and Asia shall not starve.

Already shipload after shipload has been sent. Even more is now on the high seas.

To do this, your government has ordered flour milling cut 25%. Naturally, this means less bread for America.

The logical thing to do, of course, is to buy less bread and cut down on the bread you eat.

Deny yourself bread, but don't deny your child. Your child is entitled to his just share of bread. In order to have the well-balanced diet his growing body demands.

Because good bread provides 8 elements the growing child needs for proper, normal development of body and mind. And for energy, for work and play.

Illustrated below are the 8 ways Wonder Bread helps build strong bodies for children. Naturally, you want your child to have these 8 advantages.

You want your child to have his rightful share of Wonder Bread. And by practicing self-rationing, every father and mother can see to it that their children get it.

And, at the same time, play their part in saving bread so that more wheat can be sent abroad to halt the spread of famine there.

We repeat: practice self-rationing in your home. Deny yourself bread, but don't deny your child.

You'll be glad in your heart for doing it.

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for June 9 is Mark 6:7-13; Luke 10:1-20; 14:25-27, the Memory Verse being John 13:35, "By this shall all men know that ye are My disciples, if ye have love one to another.")

We have had several lessons about Christ's friends while He was on earth. Now we take up His instructions to those closest to him, the twelve, as to their work while He was still living and also after His death, resurrection and ascension.

The first sending forth was of the twelve. "He called unto Him the twelve, and began to send them forth two by two; and gave them power over unclean spirits."

He told them what equipment they should take. With no luxuries, simply clad, and with no money, they were to stay at the homes of families who would welcome and entertain them.

"They should take nothing for their journey, save a staff only; no scrip, no bread, no money in their purse:

"But be shod with sandals; and not put on two coats."

"What place soever ye enter into an house, there abide till ye depart from that place."

"If they were not received in any house in a town, they were to "shake off the dust under your feet for a testimony against them." Those towns had their chance to entertain men of God, and to hear His message, and if they refused, "It shall be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrha in the day of judgment, than for that city." This was stern and terrible punishment for these people who refused hospitality to the disciples of Him who sent them them and would not listen to their message.

They Preached Repentance

So the twelve went out, "and preached that men should repent. And they cast out many devils, and anointed with oil many that were sick, and healed them."

This is the only place where mention is made of oil for healing. It may have been that the use of healing oil gave the disciples—new at the work—confidence in themselves, and also it aided the faith of those who were treated. The twelve were sent out in January, 29 A. D.

St. Luke tells of sending out the seventy, in the 10th chapter, and this took place in December of the same year—29 A. D. The seventy were also sent out two by two, and were told that they were needed as "the harvest is great, but the laborers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord send forth laborers into His harvest." Prayerfully they were to undertake this mission.

"Go your ways; behold, I send you forth as lambs among wolves."

They, too, were instructed to carry no purse, scrip or shoes, and in addition were told to "salute no man by the way." They were to wear sandals which had no uppers, but were tied by thongs to the feet. Shoes had uppers and protected the feet more thoroughly.

Into "Whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be to this house."

Into the house that received them they were to stay, "eating and drinking such things as they give: for the laborer is worthy of his hire. Go not from house to house." Not only were they to preach the gospel, but they were to heal the sick in these homes that opened to them. The kingdom of God is come unto you."

Again, if they were not welcomed they were to shake the dust of the town from their feet, saying, "Even the very dust of your city, which cleaveth on us, we do wipe off against you: notwithstanding be ye sure of this, that the kingdom of God is come nigh unto you."

They Return Joyfully

The seventy returned joyfully, saying, "Lord, even the devils are subject unto us through Thy name." Jesus answered, "I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven. . . . Notwithstanding in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you; but rather rejoice because your names are written in heaven."

The last Bible reference in our lesson tells of Jesus' warning to His diciples of what it will mean to them to dedicate their lives to Him. To a great multiude that followed Him, He said:

"If any man come to Me, and hate not his father and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be My disciple.

"And whosoever doth not bear his cross, and come after Me, cannot be My disciple."

Jesus knew too well the way He had trod in life, the weariness, heartaches and the martyrdom, and unless His disciples understood that His way must be theirs, they could never carry on the work of their Master. They must sacrifice family, friends, even life itself, to be disciples of their Lord.

Aim To Reduce Auto Death Toll

State Highway Safety Committee To Map Program At Capital June 17

HARRISBURG, June 6.—(INS)—A program designed to reduce traffic accidents was slated Wednesday to be mapped by the Pennsylvania Highway Safety committee at Harrisburg June 17.

The Revenue department has reported that 455 persons were killed in automobile accidents in the commonwealth during the initial quarter of 1946.

The general assembly last year appropriated $25,000 for the committee, composed of state officials, to carry out its work.

Dr. Paul L. Cressmen, of the Department of Public Instruction, said the group would consider methods of teaching the public highway safety including classroom training for school children.

"We will discuss the phases of highway safety we should place emphasis in order to help lower the traffic toll," Cressmen said.

Training Program

He pointed out that the committee also would consider the training of school bus drivers, pedestrians and student "safety patrols". "Behind-the-wheel" training for drivers and safe bicycle operation for youths would be reviewed, he added.

Ivan Stehman, of Lancaster, assumed his duties earlier this week as committee director. Other members were State Police Commissioner C. M. Wilhelm, Superintendent of Public Instruction Francis B. Haas, Deputy Revenue Secretary Otto Messner, and T. Elmer Transeau, director of the Bureau of Highway Safety.

The committee will confer with officials of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, Pennsylvania Motor Truck association, Keystone Automobile club, Pennsylvania Automotive association and the oil industry in the state.

"We want these groups to feel that this is not just a swivel chair proposition," Cressmen said. "We want them to give us their worthwhile advice in meeting this problem."

HIGH QUALITY FEED GOAL IN MAKING HAY

By cutting hay at the right stage of maturity and putting it up in the best manner more of the nutrients, such as carbohydrates, protein, and minerals, as well as the vitamins, can be saved.

The weather is an uncontrollable factor, but even weather losses can be reduced.

The first consideration is "when to cut". Most legumes and grasses yield the most protein per acre and the maximum tonnage at about the full-bloom stage.

After they pass the full-bloom stage the protein content, palatability and digestibility go down rapidly.

Where there is a large acreage to put up it may be necessary to start harvesting before the full-bloom stage in order to finish before some fields progress too far beyond the desired maturity.

Orchard grass or tall oats should be cut first since they are first to bloom and deteriorate most rapidly after proper maturity. They make good hay or grass silage if cut early enough.

Alfalfa, especially in old stands, is ready to cut by the time of the half-bloom stage. If alfalfa is stunted by wet weather or by insects before it begins to bloom the best plan is probably to cut it at once. This allows the new growth to come on for the next crop. Ordinarily too-early cutting — before some bloom shows—may seriously weaken the stand.

Big Market Eases Food Problems Of GI Wives In Berlin

BERLIN, May 6.—(INS)—Newly-arrived American wives in Berlin have found at least one feature of "America" in this battered city which goes a long way to making life easier than expected.

It is a sprawling colorful "super market" in the Grunewald forest which supplies them with everything from mops to T-bone steaks.

Opened in a former German inn, the market is the largest and most complete commissary store in Europe and has begun serving the 47 families of American servicemen in Berlin.

Other American civilians, working for the army or the State Department in the Berlin district, also trade at the super market which is expected to handle a five-million dollar business yearly.

Among hard-to-find items on order are baby foods, olives and relishes. Arrangements have been made to supply ice by the pound.

A truly American feature is a delivery service. American wives can phone their orders in and the commodities will be delivered by army truck to their front door.

In number of species insects are more numerous than all of the other groups of land animals together, while in number of individuals they are countless.

One Place Where Building Material Shortage Is Not Felt

TAOS, N. M.—(INS)—Now that the war is over and summer has returned, the artists, the writers and the tourists are coming back to Taos.

And they're finding it perhaps the one place in postwar America which barely feels the building materials shortage.

For the three villages of Taos, with their varying racial cultures, are adobe towns—made of mud and sand and straw—and although the most elaborate structures have only a skeleton of timber, some still stand solidly after 400 years!

It goes without saying that there still are plenty of those materials with which the Anglos, the Indians and the Spanish-speaking people can mould their snug, well-insulated homes.

Real-Estate Boom

But Taos, too, is feeling the real-estate boom, despite the simplicity of the houses that cluster across its slopes beneath the purple skyline of the Sangre De Cristo mountains.

"Prices are much higher for land than they've been in years," said young Saki Karvac, shrugging his shoulders. "Everyone has money now, and everybody wants property. So prices go up."

Saki, who works for his dad at the La Fonda hotel, is typical of the easy, semi-disdainful tolerance of Taos. A second generation Greek and veteran of the war in the Pacific, Saki tosses the English, Spanish and Indian tongues around with almost equal ease.

And whether his bar, cafe or hotel customers wear blankets, serapes or high-crowned hats, they all greet Saki with the same good-humored banter—and vice versa.

Reason For Return

Perhaps that, in addition to the peace and beauty of the high-level mountain cup, is the reason why the artists and the writers are returning to Taos in droves.

It has always been a tolerant town, yet each race or tribe or creed somehow managed to maintain its individual pride and personality—while living in harmony with others. That is why its two principal villages, the Spanish Don Fernando De Taos and the Indian Pueblo of San Geronimo De Taos, lie a league apart.

They lay close together, for protection against the roving tribes of Apaches, Ute, Comanche and Navaho tribes (the Tasoenes were a peaceful tribe—who ranged and plundered the area.

But as the 16th century gave way to the 17th, the Indians became alarmed at the growth of the Spanish community in their midst and the frequency of intermarriage between the two races. So they asked the Spaniards to "move a league away"—and the Spanish newcomers did with good grace.

Their lives, however, are still interwoven and members of all races work, eat, drink and often play in the same places.

Identity Not Lost

Still, they have not lost their separate identity. The blanketed brave who works on your car through the day will walk along the tree-shaded road at night to return to his pueblo life and its timeless traditions. The folks of Spanish and Mexican ancestry courteously speak your language around you, but let two of them get together and their talk is a torrent of the medolodiously-mixed Castilian and south-of-the-border-tongue.

That is the inner beauty of Taos which even transcends the grandeur of its skyline—that same cloud-caressed skyline which the late D. H. Lawrence once termed the most "beautiful I have seen in my travels around the world."

There are other long-standing trends in Taos that give the laugh to world-travelled super-sophisticates who speak with bored longing of the art and literature centers of the old world.

Nowhere in Italy or France did I find a community this small which accorded the artist or the writer more respect. Here, he finds a low-priced living while he labors, and if at first he's not successful, well—the walls af Taos cafes and inns are lined with paintings (just as Capri or along the Riviera) many of which you know were taken out in trade.

And in the peaceful, harmonious blind of three proudly ancient cultures lies plenty of subject matter for pen or brush—as well as, perhaps, a lesson to a not-too-tolerant, still war-torn world.

English Brides In Majority At Red Cross Tea

Local Chapter Entertains 21 War Brides From Overseas Wednesday Afternoon

Although the English girls were by far in the majority, five countries and the Territory of Hawaii were represented at the tea given by the local chapter of the American Red Cross Wednesday afternoon for the brides which servicemen have brought back from overseas.

Seventeen from England

Seventeen of the girls were from England, one was from Ireland, one from Australia, one from New Zealand, one from Hawaii, and one from Belgium. Other war brides who were unable to attend the tea include several from Italy.

American, English, and Australian accents were jumbled together in the chapter house as the girls chatted over their meringues and tea. One girl, Mrs. Jeannie Sowinsky, from Belgium, speaks only French and was able to talk only with Mrs. Morton Wingett, a native of Switzerland.

Others from the home countries of the girls were Rev. G. S. Bennett, of Australia; Mrs. Mary Conti, of Italy; and Mrs. Harry Culliford, from Great Britain. These people, all of whom have made satisfying adjustments to their adopted land, spoke to the girls to welcome and encourage them.

Red Cross Workers Speak

Brief talks were also made by the heads of a number of Red Cross divisions, including Mrs. J. Glenn Berry for home nursing; Mrs. Plummer D. Gibson, first aid; Mrs. William Cosel, nutrition; Mrs. Earl Campbell, sewing; Mrs. Robert Garland, knitting, Mrs. Eliah Kaplan, home service; Mrs. Guy McCracken, staff assistants; and Mrs. John McIlwraith, motor corps. Miss Elizabeth Breslin, executive secretary of the chapter, was introduced to the group.

Mrs. John B. Elliott, chairman of volunteer services at the chapter, presided at the meeting, and poured for the tea which followed.

Among the guests present was a girl from Ireland whose baby is one of those to become ill as a result of the ocean trip to this country. Some of the girls have been here a year or more, while others are still getting acquainted with their new families. Most of them admitted that they were homesick, but they were being good sports about it.

Good-Looking Gals

As a group, the war brides are good-looking and good-humored. They enjoyed meeting at the tea, and have already started discussing the possibilities of forming a club of their own. A number of them volunteered for various Red Cross services during the afternoon, and others may form sewing or knitting groups.

Refreshments, served to the guests by the canteen corps, were chosen in conformance to the president's request to save wheat and fats. Mrs. Russell Allen was in charge of the canteen.

BLOOM TO GET POST

HARRISBURG, June 6.—(INS)—George I. Bloom, who has done yeoman's service as Gov. Edward Martin's secretary, today was expected to be rewarded with the secretaryship of the Republican state committee.

Bloom, who sacrificed a prosperous law business in Washington, Pa., to take the $9000 a year post under the governor in January, 1943, would succeed Gregg L. Neel of Pittsburgh.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Blocking Crossing With Train Brings Fine For Engineer

DENNISON, O., June 6.—(INS)—Pennsylvania Railroad Engineer S. B. Lougeman of Pittsburgh found out today that he had to pay far more than he expected for his lunch on May 26.

Mayor R. L. Roby of Dennison fined him $10 and costs for blocking a crossing with his train while he took 22 minutes to eat the meal in a nearby restaurant.

There is little agriculture in the great plains of the northwest portions of Outer Mongolia. Camels, horses and sheep are the principal interests. The religion is Buddhist Lamaisam.

An apparatus was invented in 1945 that super-powders coal to get maximum heating value from anthracites and other coals of high ash content.

EDWARD GARDNER RECEIVES RELEASE

Fireman 1-c Edward S. Gardner was released Saturday from the Navy at Bainbridge, Md., after two years' service. He served for one year on the destroyer the U.S.S. Lawrence in the Pacific area.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dailey of rear 315 East Washington street, and plans to enter college in the fall.

India's cotton industry centers in the city of Bombay.

Jap Movie Fans Favor Cowboys

TOKYO, June 6.—(INS)—Japanesse movie fans have a fancy for hard-riding film cowboys according to attendance figures released today in Tokyo.

Figures showed that "Tall in the Saddle," starring John Wayne, was the biggest box office hit of 14 American movies shown in Tokyo in the past three months.

Wayne's cowboy epic outdrew "Madame Curie," "Abe Lincoln," "Keys of the Kingdom," "Watch on the Rhine," and other expensive productions.

Another reason some men don't enjoy Sunday school is because they didn't have time to sleep off their hangover.

Naughtiness defeats itself. When people get used to it, it seems commonplace and the kick is gone.

TO COMPLETE NIAGARA

HARRISBURG, June 6.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania Historical and Museum commission will meet at the state capitol today to select a marine architect to complete the rigging of the flagship Niagara anchored at Erie.

Dr. Donald A. Cadzow, commission director, reported that the restoration of the famous ship commanded by Oliver Hazard Peary during the battle of Lake Erie in 1813 was part of the development program at Niagara Park in Erie.

OPA Survey Shows Bread Shortages Faced By Nation

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS)—A nation-wide survey conducted by the OPA revealed today that approximately 70 per cent of U. S. communities are facing acute or serious shortages of bread.

The OPA survey also disclosed that no wide-spread black market in bread has developed despite the growing shortages throughout the nation.

This was revealed by an OPA official, who compiled reports from 57 OPA districts on the bread situation.

The official said that the purpose of the survey was to discover the areas in the country where critical bread shortages have developed and to find out the extent of black market operations in bread.

He said that the survey had shown that about 93 per cent of the areas canvassed by the OPA reported that the local bread situation has grown worse within the last two weeks.

PERSONAL MENTION

John Lewis of 916 Marshall avenue remains quite ill at his home.

Mrs. Gladys Hirshberger of Warren, O., has returned to her home after visiting several days with her daughter, Mrs. Mary Ellen Phillips at Walmo.

Miss Mary Lou Donley, of Gardner Stop, is improving, after an operation in the New Castle hospital. She will be confined there for a number of days yet.

Mrs. Sara M. Holbrook and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Smith of Walmo attended the Stowe high school commencement in McKees Rocks Tuesday evening. Miss Corrine Ann Phelps, their granddaughter and niece, graduated from the school with high honors.

Dr. and Mrs. Ward W. Long, of Stockton, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Orlanda Phillips, of Youngstown, O., were recent guests of friends and relatives of this city. Mrs. Long and Mrs. Phillips are daughters of the late A. L. Burlette, of New Castle. Dr. Long was a delegate to the General Assembly at Atlantic City, N. J.

Mrs. Charles Craft and family who have been making their home with her mother, Mrs. G. B. Tribby, of 929 Warren avenue, have gone to their cottage at Lakeside, Cleveland, O., where they will spend the month of June. Mrs. Craft's brother, Capt. Charles Tribby, who is home on a 45-day furlough from Germany, accompanied them.

Blessed are the peacemakers. They are spending only twenty billion dollars on armament this year to show how peaceful they are.

INDICTED IN SLAYING

Pomona Grange Meets At Mahoning Valley

Annual Memorial Service Conducted During Afternoon For Those Deceased During Year

Mahoning Valley Grange was host to Lawrence County Pomona grange, at its regular session, Wednesday.

The morning session was devoted to the regular business of the organization, with Worthy Master McCullough presiding. Quarterly reports from the subordinate and juvenile granges were read, followed by the report of the Pomona officers of their activities. J. A. Boak spoke concerning the various bill pending before Congress.

Opening the afternoon session, Mrs. Harry Emery, chairman of the Home Economics committee, introduced Mrs. Robert Dickson, of New Castle, who gave an illustrated talk on "My Hobby Is Ceramics". She very ably demonstrated how those with an artistic talent could make a small kiln for the making of ceramic jewelry and other articles.

The annual memorial service for those who had passed on during the year was conducted by Chaplain Rev. A. D. Anderson, of Big Beaver grange. Elma Robinson and Irma Paden sang "The Lights of Home", after which Rev. W. W. Willis gave a very appropriate memorial address. The altar was fittingly covered with flowers in memory of Brothers McClure, Boots, Smith, Emery, Brewster, McCreary and Jenkins; Sisters Thompson, Hazen, Schofield and Dunn.

Following the singing of "The Prayer Perfect" by the duo, Rev. Anderson pronounced the benediction.

The opening feature of the evening session was the quartet contest, with Westfield male quartet winning first palce, East Brook mixed quartet, taking second place. The second feature was the presentation of a one-act play "In Reverse" by members of the Wilmington grange.

It was announced that a young people's party will be enjoyed at Firestone Park, July 17.

The next meeting of Pomona Grange will be held at East Brook Grange, August 28.

Employment Boom Is Being Predicted

PITTSBURGH, June 6.—(INS)—United State Employment Service officials in Pittsburgh today predicted a "boom" in employment within a few weeks in the steel capital after a serious slump due to recent strikes.

With the exception of a few types of common labor, the demand for workers will outstrip the supply, USES officials declared.

George Walter, manager of the USES industrial division disclosed that most of the demand will be in the skilled and semi-skilled classes.

Several lines of work are already in need of workers, Walter declared. He said that there is a great demand for stenographers, foundry pattern makers, tailors and upholsterers, carpenters, plumbers, painters, plasterers, electricians, machineshop men, roofers, and laundry workers.

Sad note on prephecy: A cartoon service says the soft coal mined this year would fill 700 Empire State buildings.

LANDS IN PIT FLEEING POLICE

Carmack Russo, Vine street, appeared before Mayor John F. Haven in police court, with wet clothing, having early this morning, either fallen or leaped into a 10-foot deep water pit at the Byers coal yard after he tried to escape from Policemen Criswell and Reese who were summoned to the Eakin gasoline station, Grant and Sampson street. It was reported he threw stones and damaged a car owned by Joe Walzer, Smithfield street.

The mayor ordered Russo held pending a settlement of the damages to the car. He was charged with drunkeness and disorderly conduct.

The Walzer car had been driven to the gas stations by an attendant, Robert Smiley. Russo got into the car, was ejected, then threw the stones. In his flight he landed in the pit and when found by the police was hanging by the tips of his fingers, the rest of his body submerged. They report that he would have possibly drowned had his grip broken loose.

But forty O.P.A.s, with absolute control of prices couldn't save us from ruin if workers stop production of the things we need.

SMELLS

Blind people with an acute sense of smell can tell where they are by the odor of the place.

People become accustomed to odors and do not smell them at all.

A doctor does not smell his office, a druggist his store, a teacher her building, a butcher his shop, a tanner his vats.

Perfumes are pleasing to most people, but some people do not like them.

Bad odors are annoying to everyone. A glue factory may not be the cause of any disease but the bad smell displeases everyone around it.

In a closely built up city, people have to be considerate of each other.

Chickens and goats and cows and pigs are all right in the country. They usually cause a lot of trouble in the city.

City dwellers have to be careful to help keep the neighborhood clean and tidy.

It is nice to have fresh eggs but if the chickens annoy the neighbors it is not so good.

Gold Star Mothers Lash Out At Lewis And Jas. C. Petrillo

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—(INS)—American Gold Stars Mothers in convention in Philadelphia lashed out Wednesday at John L. Lewis—president of the United Mine Workers—and James C. Petrillo—head of the American Federation of Musicians.

In telegrams to President Truman, the mothers denounced Lewis and Petrillo for "defying the federal laws."

"Our boys gave their lives for our country," the telegram said, "and some measures should be taken to make these people obey the laws of the peoples of these United States."

An Englishman named Walton is credited with having invented linoleum in 1860.

A. F. Of L. Maritime Workers Join In 'Stopwork' Move

NEW YORK, June 6.—(INS)—The AFL Seafarers International Union entered the maritime labor crisis today by summoning its 62,000 members from ships in Atlantic, gulf and Pacific ports to simultaneous "stop-work" meetings at 3 p. m. EDT.

International Vice-President John Hawk announced the move following a closed meeting of nearly 2,000 members of the AFL union in New York. He said he was under instructions from the members not to divulge the immediate purpose of today's "stop-work" meetings.

(In Seattle, Ed Coester, business agent of the AFL sailors unions of the Pacific, earlier announced SUP Secretary-Treasurer Harry Lundberg had ordered members of that union to leave their ships at Pacific coast ports for similar meetings today and tomorrow in protest against alleged failure of ship owners to negotiate new contracts.)

Decline Noted In Milk Production

HARRISBURG, June 6—Livestock feed problems are increasing for farmers of Pennsylvania, and have reached the point where milk production is being seriously handicapped, the State Department of Agriculture announced today following a Federal-State survey that revealed a 5 per cent decline in milk output for April compared with the same month last year.

Feed scarcities have extended into hay and roughage, and the survey revealed "quite a few dairymen" are running low in hay, silage and fodder, "and this has forced some reduction in the size of herds." Observers pointed out that wet weather at harvest time last summer netted hays somewhat lower in quality than usual. Pastures have been slow in coming into condition for grazing, the report stated, but nevertheless dairymen have been forced to get a higher percentage of feed from pastures than is customary at this time of year, it was explained.

Interchange Plan Is Given Approval

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS)—The house foreign affairs committee Wednesday, unanimously approved an administration bill providing for the interchange of weapons, ships, and military training between the United States and other western hemisphere countries.

The committee acted after hearing testimony of top-ranking government officials who described the measure as a contribution to world peace, and a necessary step toward establishing a unified military and naval defense, should the western hemisphere fall the victim of aggression.

Limit Chartering Of Plane Service

HARRISBURG, June 6.—(INS)—The Public Utility Commission announced that it will authorize only two-year charter airplane service in view of an anticipated rapid development of aviation in Pennsylvania.

Public interest dictated that "economic regulation of charter service be sufficiently flexable to permit the unretarded development of flying" in the commonwealth, the commission addd.

Strongly Censure Russian Attitude In World Affairs

Churchill, Attlee Join In Sharp Criticism Of Soviet's Veiled Moves

LONDON, June 6.—(INS)—Prime Minister Clement Richard Attlee and his predecessor Winston Churchill joined Wednesday in a sharp criticism of Soviet Russia's attitude in the handling of international affairs.

In the second day of a heated foreign affairs debate before the House of Commons, Churchill went so far as to say that "the seeds of a new world war are being sown" behind Russia's "iron curtain".

Attlee, Britain's Laborite prime minister, was less accusatory. But even he charged that Russia insisted upon imparting to the Potsdam agreement a rigid and literal interpretation that denies all the flexibility needed to meet a changing situation. He said:

"I think they disregard the spirit in which we entered into these things."

Attlee said he considered it "quite extraordinary" that it is so difficult to make the Russians understand there is more than one voice in Britain, adding:

"We have to look upon the Russians to some extent as if they were born in a dark forest and do not understand the sunlight, wind and air of free democracies."

Attlee said he did not believe that people should judge the state of the world wholly pessimistically.

He pointed out that Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, who opened the debate yesterday, stressed that what was needed most of all are patience and understanding.

CITY FILES EQUITY SUIT

In an equity suit filed by the city of New Castle against the county commissioners, the county institution district and the New Castle school board and Joseph Bloise, the court is asked to restrain any further sale of property held by the county on Taylor street and also asked to enjoin county and school officials to refrain from any attempt to collect or levy taxes against the properties in question.

The property consists of a collection of lots on Taylor street. The city avers that when the Harmony company relinquished possession of them it was the city's intention to some day make Taylor street a bypass for East Washington street traffic. This is now being done.

Some time ago the county commissioners sold a lot to Joseph Bloise for delinquent taxes, to which the city protested. The city claims the lots and states that a city tool shed is built upon part of the property and because the city does not know the ultimate width of the street demanded by the state highway department it wants the county restrained from making furthur sales.

Another of the Taylor street lots was sold Wednesday morning by the commissioners.

JAIL ROLL HIGH

The jail enrolment at the present time is higher than it has been for some time. There are now 19 men and two women eating off the county in the county jail.

ASKS RETURN OF DEED

In an equity suit filed by Carrie B. Griner against Ella May Markley, formerly Ella May Griner, and Leroy H. Markley, Mrs. Griner asks that the defendants be ordered to make a deed to her for property located on Albert street.

The suit sets out that on April 20, 1931, John H. Griner died and Mrs. Griner came into full possession of the home. At the time, the suit avers, Mrs. Griner was overcome with grief and not acquainted with the laws of real estate. In order to make the transmission of any estate left at her death easier, the suit avers that Mrs. Griner made a deed to her daughter with the understanding that it was not to be delivered until after Mrs. Griner's death.

The deed was kept in a joint safe deposit box for a time but later taken to the home. Sometime later, Mrs. Griner avers, her daughter took the deed and had it recorded. Mrs. Griner now asks that the court order the defendents to make a new deed for the property back to her so that it may be made a matter of record.

Dodgers Defeat Pirates In Night Game 5 To 3

Brooklyn Takes Advantage Over Befuddled Bucs

Pirates Call Off Sit-Down Strike, Then Lose Nocturnal Battle To "Dem Bums"

RED SOX-BROWNS BATTLE TO TIE

NEW YORK, June 6.—(INS)—If the Pittsburgh Pirates were half as good ball players as they are club house lawyers they would be much higher in the National league club standings today.

They called off a sit-down strike for higher pay last night and then took the field at the last minute to play the Dodgers. The Dodgers, who do their battling on the ball field rather than in a club house, trimmed the Pittsburgh disciples of Blackstone, 5 to 3. Kirby Higbe was credited with his fourth straight victory although he had to retire when he pulled a back muscle in the seventh.

Cards Trip Braves

The Cardinals kept in step with the Dodgers by topping the Braves in the ninth, 2 to 1. Buster Adams' pinch single with the bases loaded was the blow Kenny Burkhart needed for his third victory.

The reds and Phils were idle but the Giants managed to lose another in the sunlight, the Cubs beating them in the ninth, 6 to 5. The Giants blew a four-run lead in this one and the Cubs settled it with two out in the ninth on a pass and three successive singles.

The Tigers said it with home runs to stop the Mackmen, 2 to 0. George Kell and Dick Wakefield supplied the round-trippers and Virgil Trucks and Al Benton between them held the A's to four hits.

Sox and Browns Tie

The Red Sox had their lead slashed half a game when they could get no better than an 8 to 8 tie with the Browns in 12 innings. Rain held up the game for an hour while they were playing the ninth and after play was resumed the Red Sox tied the score. Thirty-five players took part in this weird affair that lasted three hours and a half, not counting the hour's delay.

The Indians could do little with Roger Wolff under the arc lights and the Senators took them, 5 to 1.

The Yanks wound up sometime after midnight a comedy of errors with the White Sox. The Yanks made only seven hits but the White Sox made six errors, their pitchers issued 15 passes and at that the Yanks barely staggered through to a 9 to 6 decision.

Slovaks Defeat Sons Of Italy

Pastirk and Lenhart teamed up on the mound last night at Booker T. Washingtin field to give the Sons of Italy one hit as the Slovaks grabbed a City baseball league win 1 to 0 behind this splendid exhibition of hurling, to snap their losing streak.

Janacone on the hill for the Sons of Italy gave up but four hits, the Slovaks shoving over their winning marker in the last of the seventh when Grzybowski opened the inning with a double, the only extra-base hit of the game, and scored when pinch-hitter Dzeman hit a single. The winning hurler was Lenhart, after relieving Pastirak.

West Pittsburg Streak Halted

Unable to supply anything resembling power at the plate against the slants of young Ernie Pyle, the West Pittsburg "Gas House Gang" saw their four-game winning streak in the City baseball loop smashed to smithereens last night by the up and coming West Side Tigers, in a postponed game at West Pittsburg, 2 to 1.

It was strictly a pitching battle all the way, with Pyle having the better of Attisano, giving but five hits. West Pittsburg put on a seventh inning rally that fell short after shoving over a run, their lone tally.

Elks Nose Out Hillsville, 3-1

Wildness by Tony Micco in the fifth inning last night lost Hillsville the game to the Ellwood Elks, 3-1, as the Tube City club clung to second place in the standings.

In the first of the fifth, Neiper walked and Beatrice singled for the Elks. Then Micco issued passes to the next four batters, forcing in all the Ellwood runs.

Beatrice, although touched for nine hits, kept them well scattered for his third win of the season against no losses. Micco now has a one and three record.

MOOSE GOLFERS CHASE UNITED

Two Teams Outdistancing Field In Sylvan Heights Golf League Race As Half Nears

With half-time drawing nearer, United Engineering and New Castle Moose seem to be distancing the field in the Sylvan Heights golf race, each team boasting a well-balanced aggregation of fine golfers. Last night, both won their matches by identical scores, United Engineering winning from Standard Steel Spring 4½ to 1½, while New Castle Moose defeated Duca D'Abruzzi 4½ to 1½. Ellwood City Moose fell back a pace when they drew a bye for the evening and are in third place.

Ted Lach, returned marine, again paced the field with a par round of 36, followed by F. Lombardo and T. Lombardo, with 37's; while Ted Woodrow, Fred Palmer, and James Gaione had 38's, and Hoe Mazzeri, a 39.

The course is again in good condition following a few days of dry weather, having been so soggy following the rains of last week, that it was closed over Sunday for the protection of the greens, but play is now going along under ideal conditions.

Results of other matches played last night were: Vernors 5, Johnson Bronze 1; Sons of Italy 3, Universal Sanitary Manufacturing 3.

The standings of the league follows:

United Engineering	22
New Castle Moose	19
Ellwood City Moose	14½
Duca D'Abruzzi	14
Sons of Italy	13
Standard Steel Spring	11
Vernors	10½
Universal Sanitary Mfg.	9

Joe Hairhogger, Sr., started the game for the Legion, being relieved by Pozzutto. It was the Wampum veteran's first win of the season.

Shenango Pottery Golfers Battle

Incas Captained By Lee Starr Have First Half Just About Sewed Up

For the fifth consecutive Wednesday, the weatherman smiled upon the Shenango Pottery golfers as 34 members competed at the Castle Hills course under ideal conditions. The first half schedule has two more weeks to run before the champs are crowned.

It looks very much as if the pace-setting Inca team, captained by Lee Starr, has the first half toga wrapped up ready to be delivered. Going into last night's play with a lead of three points, they swept five matches from the Chinas, while their closest rivals, the Havilands, were able to garner but two points from the Zeisel team. Flick Kerr and Starr paced the Incas with a 45 and 48 respectively over the back nine. Latimer, Saunders and Morgan completed the route.

The Shepoco team continued its upward surge by licking the Franklins 3½ to 1½ and going into a second place tie with the Havilands. Russ Lawson continued to be the sparkplug of the Shepocos as he shot a fine 41 to be medalist for the evening. Burns, Johns and Francozia also contributed points.

In the final match, the Castletons defeated the Shenangos 3-1. Gowell, Knapp and Shellito scored for the winners while Ed Garner saved his team from a shutout.

Runnersup for the medalist honors were Walter Morgan with a 43 and Bud Long and Kerr with 45's, both made in the tougher back nine.

The team standing to date—Inca 20, Haviladn 14, Shepoco 14, Castletons 12½, Zeisel 11, Shenango 7½, China 7, Franklin 7.

Illinois Leads Conference Race For Sport Titles

Illini Capture Tennis, Indoor And Outdoor Track And Wrestling Titles For 1946

CHICAGO, June 6.—(INS)—Victories in track and tennis over last weekend established the University of Illinois as ruler of the Western Conference sports roost for the 1945-46 cycle.

Final dope on Big Nine (nee Ten) performances, released by the league's Chicago headquarters Tuesday, showed the following preeminence in ten sports:

Illinois—(4)—tennis, indoor track, outdoor track, wrestling.

Wisconsin—(2)—baseball, cross country.

Ohio State—(2)—basketball, swimming.

Indiana—(1)—football.

Michigan—(1)—golf.

That was the set-up as far as family play was concerned. On a national scale, Wisconsin's crew has piled the waters with continued success; Ohio State won the N. C. A. A. swimming title; and championship settlement remains for track, golf and tennis.

Many Great Stars

Individual performances were many and good—including the work of Max Morris, Pete Pihos and George Tallafarro in football, Morris in basketball, Herb McKenley in track, and a trio of potential major leaguers in baseball.

The mad and merry whirl of Western Conference athletics keeps right on going, too. Michigan and Ohio State, to name two representative institutions, have already posted their sellout signs for the coming football season. Illinois is feeling the hot breath of ticket-lovers in basketball.

Radiator Golfers To Play Tonight

National Radiator Company Golf League will assemble tonight at the Sylvan Heights Golf Course for their weekly golf matches. The teams were idle last week due to their regularly scheduled playing date falling on Memorial Day.

The Gas Boiler team under the guidance of Captain Robert Saylor insist that they will continue their winning streak and pull themselves out of the cellar position as they meet the league leading Lombardo captained No. 1 Heat Extractor Boiler team.

The No. 2 Heat Extractor Boiler team led by ex-G. I. Joe Mazzari will be out to hold their lead over the No. 3 Heat Extractor team captained by Stan Dougalewicz.

Golfers Gather At Philadelphia For Tournament

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—(INS)—The nation's leading practitioners of links sorcery and the refined art of deluding the unwary eye were to begin dealing them hot off the club face today in the $15,000 Philadelphia invitation at 72 holes—a sort of exhibitors' preview to next Thursday's National Open at Cleveland.

One of the three high-quotient money events of the year, it called forth 149 entries with names to eminent the list which might reasonably be mistaken for Burk's peerage of golf, with only Byron Nelson and British Champion Dick Burton conspicuously absent. Otherwise, the production was to constitute both a prologue to the open at Canterbury and an intimate peep-show into the existing state of its talent.

Ben Hogan, leading pro of 1946 and short-price favorite at Cleveland, came here fresh off his victory in the Goodall round-robin with the idea of polishing his pre-open repertoire and picking up the capital prize, en route to the big show further west. Most of the Goodall field came with him.

Locator Buoy Revealed As One Of War's Secrets

Powered By Sea-Water Battery, Buoy Gave Radio Signals For Downed Airmen

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(INS)—The war department today let another of World War II's life-saving devices out of the army's bag of secrets.

The department credited an army air forces locator buoy powered by a signal corps sea-water battery with saving the lives of many flyers downed at sea.

The announcement said:

"A number of instances are recorded in which downed airmen tossed the buoy from their life rafts into the ocean and watched a rod-like antenna emerge from the buoy which began to transmit radio signals in all directions."

Other planes within a radius of 50 miles could pick up the signals and by radio direction finding equipment locate the source of the signal. The raft's position then could be flashed to the nearest ship.

The same apparatus served to establish rendezvous points for aircraft over the ocean areas. In that use, the buoy was dropped from a plane by parachute over the desired meeting place.

Planes coming within the 50-mile effective radius of the set were "homed" by their radio direction finding equipment to the rendezvous point marked by the buoy transmitter.

Has Important Role

Nor is the device's job finisned The war department asserted:

"As standard emergency equipment on military and civilian planes making flights over water, the miniature radio transmitter will play an important role in minimizing the tragedies arising from planes forced down at sea."

It was pointed out that darkness and adverse weather conditions limiting visibility need no longer impede sea-rescue work.

The signal corps engineering laboratories, Fort Monmouth, N. J., collaborated with several industrial concerns in developing a battery for the buoy.

The battery is no larger than an elongated flower pot. It comes to life when dunked in sea-water and provides with the aid of a vibrator device 330 volts for 12-hour transmission of radio signals.

It consists of five cells housed in a steel container in a pentagonal arrangement around a central hole through which the radio antenna extends. The outer case is cylindrically shaped, about seven inches in diameter and 10 inches in length.

The department said that for its size and weight the sea-water battery is a "formidable powerhouse", delivering electric energy for the transmission of a continuous radio signal with a range of at least 50 miles for a 12-hour period.

Warn Poultryman About New Disease

HARRISBURG, June 6.—Under authority of the state livestock quarantine law, Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst today officially proclaimed that a new disease of poultry known as Newcastle disease is of a transmissible character, and at the same time he provided for state quarantine regulations effective June 1, to cover the premises of owners where the ailment should appear.

The disease, which carries a potential danger to the poultry industry if uncontrolled, has appeared on two poultry farms in this state. It is known to exist in nine states, including six eastern states in addition to Pennsylvania. The proclamation declares: "Poultry or a bird of any species, affected with, or exposed to, or suspected of being a carrier of, this disease, shall be subject to quarantine."

Seeks Reduction Of Trade Barriers Of U. S.-Canada

TORONTO, Ont., June 6.—(INS)—William L. Batt, Philadelphia industrialist, on Wednesday, called for the gradual reduction of trade barriers and the free exchange of currencies between the United States and Canada.

Batt president of SKF Industries, Inc., and wartime vice-chairman of the War Production Board, told the Canadian manufacturers association his proposed changes would be a means of furthering international peace.

Such action by two countries, he said, would serve as a pattern of intergovernmental relationships for the United Nations which "must endure if civilization is to endure."

Warn Motorists Of Car Inspection

HARRISBURG, May 6—Secretary of Revenue David W. Harris today reminded Pennsylvania motorists of the official semi-annual inspection period which began May 1, and urged that no time be lost in having vehicles inspected because accidents resulting from mechanical defects have been increasing rapidly.

Reminding car owners that inspection arrangements should be made promptly because there are more cars to be inspected this year than during the war, Secretary Harris said:

"I cannot too strongly reiterate an assertion that I made last year that most cars on the road today have just about reached the limit of endurance and new cars are still just a possibility. Old cars are still a menace to safety and to guard against accidents from mechanical defects constant vigilance must be maintained.
